

High Liner Foods Chooses Mainsaver

San Diego, CA – January 3 2019 - Mainsaver is pleased to announce its software has been chosen by High Liner Foods for its Nova Scotia, CA site. High Liner Foods is a leading producer of frozen seafood with markets across North America. The company will replace an existing CMMS, and use Mainsaver's advanced features with expectation of improved Maintenance effectiveness and efficiency. Mainsaver will be used to manage both corrective and preventive maintenance as well as MRO procurement and transactions.

There will be multiple levels to the Mainsaver project. Mainsaver will be converting both current and historical data from an existing CMMS system to ensure an orderly transition from the old to new system without loss of asset and MRO history. Additionally, while formal Purchasing service will continue to be performed from the corporate J.D. Edwards ERP system, MRO part and service requests will be initiated in Mainsaver then automatically fed to the J.D. Edwards for PO creation. This will be facilitated via a direct integration between Mainsaver and JDE.

In addition, following the core system implementation, the Lunenburg site will begin using Mainsaver Connect for mobile processing of both work orders and material transactions. Key Maintenance Technicians will be issued tablet computers in order to process daily work orders directly from their job location without the need to directly access a fixed PC.

Implementation is currently underway and scheduled to complete in early March.
